Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1852, by DANIEL B. ROBINSON & LOREN HILLS,
"The Franklin Interest Reckoner," in the Clerk's Office of the District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania,

P R E F A C E .

IN presenting this little Book to the public it is due to the author of these Interest Tables to say that he was a man of deep study and close application of thought, and in presenting his rules for reckoning interest on dollars and cents per annum, he took the year as God has given it to man, without dropping the odd hours, minutes and seconds, (which is the usual practice,) and thus in casting the interest on one dollar for 365 days at the rate of 6 per cent per annum by his method it does not amount to 6 cents, but 5 cents, 9 mills, 96 hundreths of a mill, and a small fraction over.

A solar year is the period of time in which the sun moves through the twelve signs of the ecliptic or whole circle and returns to the same point, this comprehends 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 49 seconds. It is now about forty years since Mr. Robinson conceived the plan for the present work which was not fully matured under 30 years. The curious reader will readily discover that the intricacies of casting interest, especially for days are by this method reduced to simple rules, and rendered extremely easy for persons of the most ordinary capacity. It is believed that for accuracy and utility in this branch of business, the present work has not been equalled by any former publication. The table for computing time by days accompanying this work is of great value, for a variety of purposes. This table has been added by the junior Mr. Robinson, who has also had an important agency in the arrangement of this work, and who is well qualified for the business, being an acknowledged proficient in mathematics, and having spent much time in teaching, &c.

We would say to those into whose hands this work may fall, study well the Rules which it contains, and if you practice lending or borrowing money at interest, you will save much time and avoid much mental perplexity by the use of this little manuel. With these remarks we submit this work with much confidence to an enlightened and scrutinizing public.

LOREN HILLS,

EXPLANATIONS.

THE months and days of the month occupy the first left hand column. The next column contains the years and days of the year, from one day to three hundred and sixty-five.— At the right hand of this column is placed the tables of interest on one dollar in cents and mills and decimal parts of a mill, at the several rates of one, five, six, seven and eight per cent per annum, from one day to three hundred and sixty-five inclusive, and from one to ten years.

RULES.

To find the interest on any given sum by the tables, multiply the interest in the tables at the required rate and time by the money at use, and the product is the required interest. To find the amount of any given sum, prefix the figure 1 to the tabular interest and proceed as above directed. In either case the answer in dollars and cents is in the left hand of the product.

NOTE.—In ordinary cases the first four figures on the left hand of the columns of tabular interest may be used, which will be sufficiently accurate. In multiplying by dollars and cents, point off as many figures from the right hand of the product as there are in the tabular interest. But when multiplying by dollars only, point off two figures less.

To find the number of days a note has run, subtract the number of the day of the year placed opposite the same day of the same month the note is dated from the number of the day of the year placed opposite the day of the month the note is paid and the remainder is the number of days the note has run. To find the number of days included in parts of two years, subtract the number of the day of the year placed opposite the day of the month the note is given from 365, to the remainder add the No. of the day of the year placed opposite the day of the month the note was paid, the sum is the number of days the note has run. To find the interest for any given number of years and days, add the tabular interest of the years and days together, multiply the amount by the money at interest, and the product is the sum required. To find the interest on a rate per cent not specified in the tables, multiply the interest at one per cent by the rate per cent required, then multiply the amount by the money at interest as in other cases and the product is the answer.

EXAMPLES FOR EXERCISE.

Due A. B. 83 dollars and 16 cents with interest on the 15th day of Oct. next. C. D.

Franklin, April 10th, 1852.

Require the interest on the above note when due.

- 288 No. of the day of the year opposite the day of settlement.
- 100 No opposite the date of the note.

188 No. of days the note has run.

0257372 Tabular interest at 5 per cent for 188 days,
83 16 Money at interest. [see page 17

2,14,0305552 Ans. $2 14 cts.

What will be the amount of the above note the day it becomes due?

1,0257 The first 4 figures of tabular interest with 83 16 Money at use. [1 prefixed.

85,29,7212 Ans. $55 29 cts.
